PLAYOFF FORMAT

SECTION 1 – Qualification: The teams with the highest winning percentage (when calculated to three decimal places) in each respective division at the end of the Championship Season will qualify for the playoffs and receive the top two seeds in their conference, regardless of final record.

The next two best records in each conference as determined by winning percentage (calculated to three (3) decimal places) will also qualify for the playoffs as Wild Card teams.

If there is a tie for a playoff berth, the tiebreaker system described in Section 2 will be implemented.

SECTION 2 – Tie-Breaker Procedure: In the event of a tie for first place in any division at the end of a Championship Season, the Division Winner shall be determined by:

- (1) best head-to-head record (winning percentage) between the two (2) Teams; if still tied,
- (2) best head-to-head record (winning percentage) against each Team in the division in descending order of Championship Season finish will determine the winner; if still tied,
- (3) a one (1) game playoff held the day after the Championship Season ends between the two (2) Teams with the home Team determined by a coin toss by the Commissioner.

SECTION 2 – Tie-Breaker Procedure, cont.: In the event of a three-way or four-way tie for first place in any division at the end of the Championship Season, the Division Winner shall be determined by:

- (1) best head-to-head record (winning percentage) against the other tied Teams; if still tied,
- (2) best head-to-head record (winning percentage) against non-playoff teams, individually, in descending order of Championship Season finish will determine the winner.

A tie for a Wild Card spot will be broken in the order using conference results as opposed to division.

WILD CARD AND DIVISION PLAYOFF FORMAT: The Wild Card teams will play the Division Winners in a best-of-three series, with the top seeded Division Winner playing the lowest seeded Wild Card qualifier. The Wild Card qualifier will host game 1, with the Division Winners hosting games 2 and 3.

The winner of these series will play each other in a best-of-five Divisional Series. The highest seeded advancing team will host games 3, 4, and 5.

CHAMPIONSHIP PLAYOFF FORMAT: The Championship Series playoffs shall be scheduled to begin on the second day following the scheduled completion of the Conference Finals. The Championship Series will be a best-three-out-of-five games series and will be between the winners from each Conference Finals series.

In all odd-numbered years, the winner of the Atlantic Conference Finals Series will host Games 1 and 2 of the Championship Series, and the winner of the Midwest Conference Finals Series will host game 3 and games 4 and 5 (if necessary).

In all even-numbered years, the winner of the Midwest Conference Finals Series will host Games 1 and 2 of the Championship Series, and the winner of the Atlantic Conference Finals Series will host game 3 and games 4 and 5 (if necessary).

ROSTER RULES

During the off-season, teams may have no more than thirty-four (34) players on their active roster. There is no classification limit for the off-season roster. Players signed out of the California Winter League or selected in the Frontier League Draft are exempt from the 34-player limit.

The Sunday prior to Opening Day, teams must be down to 28 active players.

Regular season and playoff rosters will be composed of a minimum of 22 active players and a maximum of 24 active players, including:

- A minimum of ten (10) players of Professional-1 or Professional-2 classification
- A minimum of six (6) players of Experienced-1 classification (adjusted down if more than 10 Professional-1/2 players are on the roster)
- A maximum of eight (8) players of Experienced-2 or Veteran classification
- Up to two (2) of these eight players may be Veteran classification

Players without prior affiliated baseball (MiLB) experience must be at least 18 years old to play in the Frontier League.

Professional-1 Classification: Players who complete a season at 24 years old or younger will be Professional-1 classifications

Professional-2 Classification: Players who complete a season at 25 years old will be no more than a Professional-2 classification

Experienced-1 Classification: Players who complete a season at 26 years old will be no more than an Experienced-1 classification

Experienced-2 Classification: Players who complete a season at ages 27-29 years old will be an Experienced-2 classification

Veteran Classification: Players who complete a season at 30 years old or higher will be a Veteran classification

For all classification levels, the player's age as of September 30 of that playing season will be used to determine the age portion of their classification.

EXCEPTIONS

Minimum Appearance Exception: A player must have accrued more than 75 at bats, 15 games pitched, or 30 innings pitched in a season for that season to count toward the classifications.

Unofficial League Exception: A player must played for an affiliated (MiLB) team (except the Dominican Summer League), any MLB Partner League team (Frontier League, Atlantic League, American Association, Pioneer League), or the Mexican League for that season to count toward the classifications.

Military Exemption: Players who have served on active military duty will receive an exemption to the age limit for any year classification of one year for each year of active duty that was served.

Position Change Exemption: Position players who are switching to pitching and pitchers who are switching to playing a position will have their classifications reset to Professional-1 provided that they do not appear in any games at their previous position (batting/running or pitching, depending on the switch).

PITCH CLOCK/DISENGAGEMENT LIMITS

The Frontier League joined the other Professional Partner Leagues by adding a pitch clock for the 2023 season and implementing a rule to limit the number of times that a pitcher can attempt to pick off a baserunner.

The pitch clock rule requires pitchers to wait no longer than 15 seconds between pitches when there are no runners on base. If there are runners on base, they will have 20 seconds to deliver the ball to home plate. Catchers must be in position with 9 seconds left, while batters must be in the box and ready to hit at the 8 second mark. Violation of these time parameters can result in a called strike or ball depending on the offender.

The rule changes also include limits on the number of disengagements (pick-off attempts, stepping off the pitching rubber, etc.) a pitcher can make per at-bat. Once a runner is on base, the pitcher is allowed two disengagements. If the pitcher makes a third pick-off attempt, for example, and does not pick-off the runner, a balk will be called, and the baserunner(s) will advance one base. The disengagement will reset following a change in the game state, such as a runner successfully advancing by stolen base, passed ball, or wild pitch.

Over the years, the Frontier League has adopted other rules that mirror what MLB has implemented in affiliated baseball to improve the pace of games. Previous changes included the adoption of rules to require a batter to keep one foot in the batter's box and limits on the number of mound visits each team was allowed during games.

PROFESSIONAL
LEAGUE

Major League Baseball (MLB) announced in September of 2020 that it named the Frontier League as a "Partner League" of MLB.

As a "Partner League," the Frontier League will collaborate with MLB on initiatives to provide organized baseball to communities throughout the United States and Canada.

"We welcome the Frontier League as a Partner League, and look forward to working with them towards our shared goal of expanding the geographic reach of baseball," said Morgan Sword, MLB Executive Vice-President, Baseball Economics & Operations.

"The Frontier League is honored to become a Partner League with Major League Baseball," Frontier League Commissioner Emeritus Bill Lee said. "This partnership will be beneficial in growing our great game of baseball in all of our U.S. and Canadian markets. Our teams and fans will be excited to see the league grow for years to come. The Frontier League began in 1993, and to have a relationship with MLB is one of the greatest moments in League history."

ABOUT THE FRONTIER LEAGUE POSTSEASON AWARDS

The Frontier League has named many of its major end-of-year awards after notable figures in league history.

MORGAN BURKHART AWARD [Most-Valuable Player]

Named in honor of Morgan Burkhart, who won three consecutive Frontier League MVP awards with the Richmond Roosters from 1996-98. During his legendary 1998 campaign, Burkhart set league records in batting average (.404), home runs (36), RBIs (98), on-base percentage (.557) and slugging percentage (.861), many of which still stand to this day. He was also the first former Frontier League position player to reach the Major Leagues when he debuted for the Boston Red Sox on June 27, 2000. Morgan is currently the assistant hitting coach for the San Diego Padres.

ABOUT THE FRONTIER LEAGUE POSTSEASON AWARDS, cont.

ROGER HANNERS AWARD (Manager of the Year)

Named in honor of the late Roger Hanners, who passed away in 2002. Roger took over as the Chillicothe Paints' manager midway through the 1993 season, and skippered them until the end of the 2000 season. He was voted Manager of the Year in 1996, and led the Paints to the Championship Series in 1996, 1998, and 1999. Upon his retirement, Roger had more wins than any manager in league history. His class and dignity both on and off the field will forever be remembered in the Frontier League.

FRAN RIORDAN CITIZENSHIP AWARD

Given to the player that best exemplifies good citizenship off the field and in his community, it is named for former Richmond and DuBois County first baseman Fran Riordan. He played in the Frontier League for six seasons, and held numerous offensive records at the end of his playing career while earning Postseason All-Star honors in 2000, 2001, and 2002. He also managed the Richmond Roosters to consecutive league titles in 2001-02 as a player-manager, won again with the Kalamazoo Kings in 2005, and skippered the Florence Freedom to their first two playoff appearances in 2012 and 2013. He was voted the league's Manager of the Year in 2008, and was part of the inaugural Frontier League Hall of Fame class in 2014. He is currently the manager of the Las Vegas Aviators, the Triple-A affiliate of the Oakland Athletics.

ABOUT THE FRONTIER LEAGUE POSTSEASON AWARDS, cont.

ROBERT FORD AWARD [Broadcaster of the Year]

Given to the top broadcaster each season as selected by the other broadcasters, general managers, and field managers. Named for Robert Ford, who was voted the 2003 and 2004 Broadcaster of the Year for the Kalamazoo Kings. Robert became the first Frontier League broadcaster to be hired as a full-time MLB play-by-play announcer when the Houston Astros tabbed him to replace Hall-of-Fame broadcaster Milo Hamilton for the 2013 season. He still serves as the radio voice of the Astros today.

BOB WOLFE AWARD [Executive of the Year]

Given to the team operator who does the best job of running his/her team throughout the year from a business, marketing, and operations perspective as voted by the other clubs. Named in honor of Frontier League co-founder Bob Wolfe, who was the inaugural winner of the award as the General Manager of the Zanesville Greys in 1993.

FRONTIER LEAGUE HALL OF FAME

The Frontier League Hall of Fame is presented by Midstream Lighting, the Preferred Sports Lighting Provider of the Frontier League. Midstream Lighting is a leading manufacturer of LED Lighting technology & solutions for Maritime, Horticulture, Aviation & Sports venues worldwide. The Frontier League Hall of Fame was established in 2014 to celebrate the players, people, and special moments that helped us become the longest-running and premier Independent Professional Baseball League.

In order to qualify for the Frontier League Hall of Fame, a player must be out of the league for three full seasons as well as retired from professional baseball for one full season. Voting is done by a committee composed of one field manager, one team front office member, and one ownership representative in conjunction with the league office. The proposed slate is then affirmed by the Board of Directors.

2014 - Inaugural Class

- Morgan Burkhart (Richmond, 1995-98)
- Aaron Ledbetter (River City, 2003-06; Washington, 2006-08)
- Scott Pinoni (Chillicothe, 1996-99)

- Kirk Taylor (Ohio Valley, 1998; Johnstown, 1999-01)
- Special Contributor: Dr. Chris Hanners

Co-founder of the Frontier League, Chris served as league president from 1994-03, and Chairman of the board from 2004-08 as owner of the Chillicothe Paints and Rockford Aviators.

- Significant Moment: Brett Gray Strikes Out 25 Batters

On June 3, 2003, in the London Werewolves' home opener, starting pitcher Brett Gray struck out a league-record 25 batters in a single game, leading London to a victory over the Chillicothe Paints with Hall-of-Famer Bob Feller in attendance. Following the game, the Baseball Hall of Fame requested memorabilia from the contest, and two days later, Gray was signed by the Cincinnati Reds.

2015

- Mike Breyman (Gateway, 2004-08)
- Bobby Chandler (Chillicothe, 1998-99; Richmond, 2000; Johnstown, 2001-02)
- Stephen Holdren (Windy City/Rockford, 2006; Gateway, 2007-09; Southern Illinois, 2009; River City, 2010-11)
- Jason James (Rockford, 2006-09, 2011; Windy City, 2011)
- Chris Sidick (Washington, 2005-11)
- Special Contributor: Bob Wolfe

Co-founder of the Frontier League, Bob was the owner of the Zanesville Greys from 1993-95. He served as league Treasurer until his retirement in 2011. Bob was also the inaugural winner of the Executive of the Year award, which is now named for him.

- Significant Moment: 2002 All-Star Game Home Run Derby

On the morning following a controversial tie in the MLB All-Star Game, the Board of Directors voted to use a home run derby if the Frontier League's game that night finished tied after nine innings of play. After DuBois County's Joe Kalczynski tied the game at 4-4 in the top of the ninth, the game indeed went to the historic derby. River City's Brody Jackson hit the winning home run in the derby to give the West Division the win. Following the game, Fox Sports Radio dedicated a 30-minute segment to the Frontier League, while footage of Jackson's winning home run was featured as the "Spotlight Segment" on ESPN's SportsCenter the following evening.

2016

- Rich Austin (Springfield, 2001; Rockford, 2002-04)
- Willie Edwards (Kalamazoo Kodiaks, 1998; London, 1999-01; Kalamazoo Kings, 2001; Chillicothe, 2002)
- Charlie Lisk (Windy City, 2006; Gateway, 2007-11; River City, 2012)
- Joey Metropoulos (Southern Illinois, 2007-11)
- Matt Schweitzer (Richmond, 2000-05)
- Special Contributor: Max McLeary

Max umpired in the Frontier League from 1995-05, becoming what is believed to be the first one-eyed umpire in professional baseball history, according to the Baseball Hall of Fame. Max's umpiring career was the subject of articles in the New York Times, Cincinnati Enquirer, Sports Illustrated, and the Associated Press. He was also the subject of the book "Everything Happens in Chillicothe: A Summer in the Frontier League with Max McLeary, the One-Eyed Umpire," covering the 2000 season.

- Significant Moment: Brian Tollberg's Major League Debut

Brian Tollberg gave the Frontier League national publicity on June 20, 2000, when he became the league's first former player to appear in a Major League Baseball game. Brian was the starting pitcher for the San Diego Padres, and earned the victory over the Arizona Diamondbacks by tossing seven shutout innings while allowing only one hit. Five days later, he won his second start, too, lasting 7 1/3 innings against the Cincinnati Reds. He was eventually named both National League Player of the Week as well as National League Rookie Pitcher of the Month. Brian made his pro debut for the Chillicothe Paints in 1994, going 7-4 with a 2.85 ERA before having his contract purchased by the Milwaukee Brewers, who then traded him to San Diego prior to the 1997 season. The Frontier League Pitcher of the Year award is named in his honor.

2017

- Chase Burch (Traverse City, 2010-13)
- Travis Garcia (Ohio Valley, 2005; Chillicothe, 2006-08)
- Pete Pirman (Evansville, 2003; Richmond, 2003; Kalamazoo, 2004-06)
- Special Contributor: Steve Sturgill

Steve was the first president of the Frontier League and one of its original owners. Steve ran the Portsmouth Explorers from 1993-94, later serving as City Council President and Mayor of Portsmouth, Ohio. Aside from Bill Lee, Steve is also the only other person in history to have his name stamped on a Frontier League baseball.

- Significant Moment: June 30, 1993 - The Frontier League Begins

After months of planning, the Frontier League became the first fully independent professional baseball league to operate since the 1970's when the eight original teams took the field for their first official games. The Tri-State Tomahawks hosted the West Virginia Coal Sox, the Kentucky Rifles hosted the Ohio Valley Redcoats, the Zanesville Greys hosted the Lancaster Scouts, and the Chillicothe Paints hosted the Portsmouth Explorers. Among the players from the inaugural games were Ohio Valley's Darin Everson (currently the Triple-A hitting coach for the Colorado Rockies) and Travis Barbery (currently the catching coordinator for the Los Angeles Dodgers); Portsmouth's Dominic Viola (currently an assignment scout for the Miami Marlins), and Tri-State's Chris Calciano (currently an area scout for the Boston Red Sox).

- Andrew Davis (Lake Erie, 2009-14)
- Scott Dunn (Traverse City, 2010-13; Washington, 2014)
- Eric Massingham (Evansville, 2011-14)
- Terry Pearson (Zanesville, 1995-96)
- Special Contributor: Duke Ward

Duke was instrumental in bringing the Richmond Roosters into the Frontier League in 1995, and was a member of their ownership group for 11 seasons. Duke also served several years as Vice-President of the league, while his Richmond team was the 2005 Frontier League Organization of the Year and hosted both the 1996 and 1998 Frontier League All-Star Games.

- Significant Moment: Unveiling of "Baseball's Best Burger"

When former Gateway Grizzlies general manager Tony Funderburg unveiled "Baseball's Best Burger" prior to the 2006 season, the team had no idea how well-known the product would become. The sandwich, which features a hamburger with bacon and sharp cheddar cheese served on a grilled Krispy Kreme donut, received national publicity from the moment it was introduced. It has been featured on ESPN, the Travel Channel, and in Fortune Magazine and Sports Illustrated, among many other places.

2019

- Ryan Bird (Southern Illinois, 2008-10)
- Landon Hernandez (Gateway, 2010-14)
- Mitch House (Chillicothe, 1996-98)
- Gilberto Mejia (Windy City, 2007-10)
- Jason Simontacchi (Springfield, 1998)
- Special Contributor: Clint Brown

Clint Brown purchased the Florence Freedom out of bankruptcy prior to the 2005 season, and owned and operated the club until his passing in January of 2018. He was an active member of many committees in his time in the Frontier League, including the Executive Committee, the By-Laws Committee, and the Membership/Expansion Committee. Clint's passion for the Freedom and the Frontier League was infectious, and he was a mentor to hundreds of employees throughout his career. Florence was voted Organization of the Year in 2005 and 2015, while General Managers Kari Rumfield (2009) and Josh Anderson (2015) won Executive of the Year during Clint's tenure. The Freedom also hosted the 2007 and 2016 All-Star Games, while on the field, the team won the 2017 West Division title and advanced to the Championship Series in 2012 and 2017. Former Freedom players Steve Delabar, Stephen Cardullo, and Aaron Wilkerson all advanced to MLB after playing under Clint, while current Milwaukee Brewers pitching coach Chris Hook and Oakland Athletics' Triple-A manager Fran Riordan were part of his on-field staff.

- Significant Moment: Opening of Hawkinson Ford Field and T.R. Hughes Ballpark

1999 was one of the milestone years in the history of the Frontier League, as the Cook County Cheetahs and River City Rascals began play, bringing the league to 10 teams for the first time. Cook County and River City were notable for being the first two ball parks built specifically for Frontier League teams as well as the first entries into suburban MLB markets for the league. Hawkinson Ford Field (now Ozinga Field) and T.R. Hughes Ballpark (now CarShield Field) drastically enhanced the standard of ballpark in the league, while the off-field success of the Rascals and Cheetahs led to future suburban markets such as Gateway, Washington, Florence, and Lake Erie.

- Joe Pass (Richmond, 1996-98; DuBois County, 1999)
- Mike Torres (Windy City, 2010-15)
- Special Contributor: Kevin Rouch

Kevin Rouch first joined the Frontier League as the radio broadcaster for the Zanesville Greys from 1993-96. He was then the voice of the Chillicothe Paints from 1997-2000. He was selected as the league's Broadcaster of the Year in 1998, and was appointed Deputy Commissioner and League Counsel in 2001, serving in both roles until the 2009 season. Kevin created the first Frontier League website, and was responsible for the Frontier League qualifying for P-1 work visas for international players.

- Special Contributor: Rich Sauget, Sr.

The owner of the Gateway Grizzlies joined the Frontier League in 1999. From 2003 through 2020, Rich served as the President of the league's Board of Directors. During his tenure, the league experienced tremendous growth, as annually, the league now attracts approximately 1.5 million fans. Throughout Rich's presidency, six new stadiums were built. He also helped to oversee the admission of the teams from the Can-Am League after the 2019 season. In 2020, the Frontier League was named as a Partner League of MLB, one of the most-important moments in league history.

2022

- Tom Crowley (Zanesville, 1993-94 & 1996)
- Perry Cunningham (Chillicothe, 2004-07)
- Jacob Dempsey (Washington, 2008-10)

- Steve Ruckman (Newark, 1994; Richmond, 1995 & 1997)
- Significant Moment: 25th Anniversary of Christian Hess' No-Hitter

It took until the Frontier League's fourth season for its first no-hitter, with 2022 marking the 25th anniversary of Christian Hess' performance. Hess, pitching for the Richmond Roosters, held the Kalamazoo Kodiaks hitless on June 8, 1997 at Mayor's Riverfront Park in Kalamazoo. His Richmond teammates in that game included Frontier League Hall-of-Famers Morgan Burkhart, Joe Pass, and Steve Ruckman. He previously led the Evansville Otters in wins in 1996 before joining the Roosters in 1997.

2023

- C.J. Beatty (Washington, 2013-15)

- Steve Marino (Evansville, 2012-13; Southern Illinois, 2014-16)
- Joe Ronca (Springfield, 1997-98)
- Special Contributor: John Cate

John Cate was the architect of the great Richmond Roosters teams of the late 1990's and early 2000's. Those teams had perennial all-stars, and were always in contention for the playoffs. Richmond was also the first team to win back-to-back titles in 2001 and 2002. He recruited Frontier League Hall-of-Famers Morgan Burkhart and Fran Riordan among others. Many of those players moved on in professional baseball and are still active today. The field in Richmond, Indiana that the Roosters once called home is now known as John Cate Field.

2024- Commissioner Emeritus Bill Lee

The Frontier League Office and the Board of Directors announced that Commissioner Emeritus Bill Lee will be the only inductee into the Frontier League Hall of Fame for 2024. Lee began his job as the first Commissioner of the League on June 1, 1994. To celebrate the 30th anniversary of his employment, Lee will be inducted on Saturday June 1, which is being celebrated as Bill Lee Day. The event will take place at the Gateway Grizzlies' Ballpark, prior to their game with the Evansville Otters.

Lee says, "I am deeply honored to join the Hall of Fame with many wonderful individuals that have helped to shape the Frontier League into what it is today. I cherish the memories I have of my 27 years as Commissioner. It is wonderful to reflect on the memorable moments, players, coaches, managers, umpires, owners, staffs and fans that I have met throughout the League. I have been blessed to have had a job that I loved. I hope to see a lot of old friends at the induction ceremony."

Commissioner Steve Tahsler says, "Bill joined the Frontier League at a pivotal time, just prior to the 1994 season. His leadership and foresight expanded the League from small towns in the Ohio Valley region to the current 16-team alignment which covers eight states and two Canadian provinces. I have had the pleasure of working with Bill for the past 27 years, and greatly appreciate his contributions to my career plus the game of baseball overall."

2025

2024 RECAP

2024 was a year highlighted by spectacular growth and record-setting achievements within the Frontier League.

The season began with professional baseball returning to Campanelli Stadium in Brockton, Massachusetts for the first time since 2011 in the form of the New England Knockouts. The Knockouts secured their first-ever victory on May 11 over the Ottawa Titans by a final score of 6-4.

Washington's Andrew Czech carried over an on-base streak from the previous season, seeing the mark hit 60 games (just nine shy of the league record) before ultimately coming to an end on June 12. The Frontier League also saw more than its fair share of dominant pitching performances, including a combined no-hitter from Quebec's Ryo Kohigashi, Ryan Sandberg and Austin Marozas on May 18. Another no-hitter came from Lake Erie's Jack Eisenbarger on June 18.

Eisenbarger will also forever be noted as one of the starting pitchers for the first-ever scoreless game in the history of baseball. On August 10, the Schaumburg Boomers and the Lake Erie Crushers were amid a late-season divisional battle with possible playoff implications on the line. Eisenbarger battled Schaumburg's Cole Cook on a hot summer evening at Crushers Stadium, with neither pitcher giving up a run through the first eight innings. Both starters then turned the game over to their respective bullpens, who carried on the scoreless bout. As the game entered sudden death, Lake Erie chose to play defense. They kept the Boomers off the board, securing the victory. The game became the first game in to end scoreless with a decided victor. The event was covered in both local media in the Cleveland area as well as by Major League Baseball.

Other highlights from the regular season included Joliet Slammer Zac Westcott breaking the Frontier League career strikeout record on July 19; his total after the 2024 season stands at 613. Gateway right-hander Deylen Miley set multiple strikeout records against the Windy City ThunderBolts on August 17. Miley struck out a league-record 10 consecutive batters and ended the day with 16 total punchouts, the most in a single game in Gateway history. Schaumburg's Chase Dawson also hit for the cycle on August 18.

2024 also marked the third consecutive season of the Frontier League breaking its own attendance record. The league hosted more than 1.7 million fans, shattering the 2023 record by an excess of 100,000.

The Québec Capitales repeated as East Division champions for the third consecutive year, while the Washington Wild Things set a franchise record with 67 wins in their capturing of the West Division. The other teams to emerge from the East included the Tri-City ValleyCats and the Ottawa Titans. The Grizzlies and the Crushers joined the Wild Things in the West playoff race as Wild Card contenders.

Nearly 13,000 fans came out to the Championship Series between Québec and Washington. The Wild Things handed the defending back-to-back champion Capitales a 5-2 loss in the series opener, but Québec stormed back in game two to even the series headed back to Stade Canac. The Capitales' offense was outstanding in the final three games of the series, scoring a combined 26 runs. The series was capped by a championship-winning, walk-off three run home run by Anthony Quirion in game four, making Québec the first team in league history to "three-peat" at champions.

Plans for the 2025 season began rolling out shortly following the conclusion of the play-offs as the league announced expansion teams in Pearl, Mississippi and Kinston, South Carolina. The Mississippi Mud Monsters and the Down East Bird Dawgs give the Frontier League a new presence in the southern United States. With the expansion, the league also reorganized itself into a two-conference, four-division format. The West Division was dissolved and formed into the new Midwest Conference, comprising of the West and Central Divisions. The East Division reformed into the Atlantic Conference, consisting of the East and North Divisions. The East and Central Divisions will each hold four teams while the North and West Divisions will each hold five.

FIELD MANAGER - JEROD EDMONDSON

Jerod Edmondson is in his second season as manager of the club playing in Brockton, Massachusetts in 2025, now the Brockton Rox.

A Massachusetts native, Edmondson was the head coach at Saint Anselm College from 2020-23, and also brings experience on the coaching staff at UMass Lowell (2007-09, 2016-19) as well as Framingham State University (2013-15), including time as the Interim Head Coach at FSU in 2014.

As a player, Edmondson was a standout in the Can-Am League from 2007-14 with several different clubs, including part of the 2009 campaign with the New Jersey Jackals, and all of the 2013 and 2014 seasons with the Rockland (now New York) Boulders.

FIELD MANAGER - ANDY McCAULEY

Andy McCauley has been the Evansville Otters' manager since 2010. He is currently second in Frontier League history in wins by a manager, entering 2025 with 795 victories in 18 seasons at the helm of the Otters, Kalamazoo Kings, Kalamazoo Kodiaks, and London Werewolves clubs, skipping the Werewolves to the 1999 league title.

Overall, McCauley has led Evansville to seven postseason appearances, including the 2016 Frontier League Championship. He has also been named the Roger Hanners award winner for Manager of the Year in 2014 and 2021, guiding the Otters to the postseason in the former campaign for the first time since 2006.

FIELD MANAGER - CHAD RHOADES

Chad Rhoades enters his third season as the Y'alls field manager in 2025. As a player, he reached as high as Double-A Portland in the Boston Red Sox organization, and also pitched in independent baseball for Fargo-Moorhead and Gary SouthShore in the American Association as well as Fort Worth in the United League before joining the coaching ranks.

After one season as Florence's pitching coach in 2015, Rhoades joined the Miami Marlins system as a pitching coach and rehabilitation coach to work with pitchers overcoming "Tommy John" surgery. He then re-joined the Y'alls staff in 2020 for the Battle of the Bourbon Trail and was their pitching coach again in 2021.

FIELD MANAGER - STEVE BROOK

Steve Brook is in his fourth season as manager of the Grizzlies, having led the club to 59 wins and back-to-back playoff appearances in 2023-24, including the West Division title in 2023.

Currently third in Frontier League history in wins by a manager, Brook previously skippered the River City Rascals from 2010-19, posting a 548-409 (.573) record with two Frontier League Championships (2010, 2019) and seven total playoff appearances.

Prior to managing the Rascals, Brook was the Rascals' pitching coach from 2008-09 following a four-year professional career on the mound, also with River City. He won 33 games as a starter from 2004-07, a Rascals club record.

FIELD MANAGER - MIKE PINTO

The all-time winningest manager in Frontier League history, Mike Pinto is in his second season with the Joliet Slammers in 2025. Pinto previously spent 14 years as the sole manager of the Southern Illinois Miners from 2007-21, winning 770 games with 13 winning seasons, four division titles and the 2012 Frontier League Championship along with a .574 win percentage that ranks among the best in league history. Prior to his time in Southern Illinois, Pinto managed two seasons in the Northern League/American Association with the Sioux Falls Canaries, and began his pro baseball career in Joliet with the former Joliet Jackhammers as a coach in several capacities.

FIELD MANAGER - JARED LEMIEUX

Jared Lemieux enters his third season as manager of the Lake Erie Crushers in 2025, having led the club back to the postseason in 2024 for the first time in five years.

He spent the 2021 and 2022 seasons as the pitching coach with the New Jersey Jackals under Brooks Carey, and has been involved in professional baseball, either playing or coaching, since 2006.

Lemieux played five seasons in the Can-Am League and American Association while earning his Master's Degree from Springfield College. Along the way, he coached at the college level, and spent five seasons as a coach with the Ottawa Champions in the Can-Am League, helping them to a championship in 2016.

FIELD MANAGER - JAY PECCI

A veteran of the independent/partner league baseball scene, Jay Pecci was named the first manager of the Mississippi Mud Monsters in January of 2025.

An infielder as a player who was an 11th-round pick in the 1998 MLB Draft out of Stanford University, Pecci played seven years of affiliated baseball in the Athletics, Giants, and Mariners organizations, reaching Triple-A. He then spent eight more years playing independent baseball, including six with the Gary SouthShore RailCats in the Northern League, amassing a club-record 548 hits.

As a manager, Pecci skippered the Florida Complex League Mets to a league-best .640 win percentage (32-18) in 2023.

FIELD MANAGER - ALBERT GONZALEZ

Albert "Bert" Gonzalez enters his second season as the manager of his favorite childhood team in 2025, having grown up in Northern New Jersey as a Jackals fan.

Gonzalez came to New Jersey after serving as an assistant coach with the High Point Rockers in the Atlantic League for four seasons under former Frontier League manager Jamie Keefe. He also served as an assistant under Keefe with the then-Rockland Boulders in the Can-Am League from 2017-18.

In addition to his time in pro baseball, Gonzalez has also been a college coach at Monroe College, Felician University, and Yeshiva University.

FIELD MANAGER - T.J. STANTON

T.J. Stanton returns to the Boulders for his fifth season in Rockland County in 2025. He led the club to their first Frontier League playoff appearance in 2022.

Stanton previously managed Trois-Rivières in the Can-Am League, guiding Les Aigles to a pair of appearances in the league semifinals while winning the 2019 Can-Am League Manager of the Year award. He also managed the Garden State Grays travel team in the Can-Am circuit in 2015.

Stanton played from 2004-14 for the Los Angeles Angels organization as well as six independent teams before beginning his managerial career.

FIELD MANAGER - BOBBY BROWN

Bobby Brown enters his fourth season at the helm of the Ottawa Titans in 2025. He has led the club to playoff berths in two of his first three seasons, advancing to the Division Series both times.

Originally from San Luis Obispo, California, Brown played at the University of Oklahoma before signing with the Frontier League's Springfield Capitals, then having his contract purchased by the Kansas City Royals as part of a 10-year professional career.

He entered the managerial ranks in 2010 with the Las Cruces Vaqueros in the Continental Baseball League, and would go on to manage in the American Association for seven years before signing on with the Titans.

FIELD MANAGER - PATRICK SCALABRINI

Patrick Scalabrini enters his 14th season as the manager of the Capitales in 2025, and his 19th season with the club overall.

Originally a player for the Capitales from 2001-02, and again from 2007-09, Scalabrini became the manager in 2010 after his playing career ended, and has led Québec to nine playoff appearances in 11 seasons, winning five Can-Am League titles (including four in a row in his first four seasons as manager) and last year's Frontier League championship in the Capitales' first season in the league.

In addition to his long association with Québec, Scalabrini also played with the Winnipeg Goldeyes in the Northern League from 2003-04, and one season in the Baltimore Orioles system in 2005.

FIELD MANAGER - JAMIE BENNETT

Jamie Bennett enters his 13th season as the manager of the Schaumburg Boomers in 2025, the only manager in club history.

As a player, Bennett was an All-SEC pitcher at Tennessee, and pitched two seasons in the Philadelphia Phillies organization. He then joined the Frontier League as a player, pitching for Dubois County Dragons, Kenosha Mammoths, and Springfield/Ozark Ducks under Greg Tagert. When Tagert moved on to Gary in the Northern League, Bennett followed him first as a pitcher in 2005, then as a coach from 2006-08.

He has led the Boomers to four championships, the most of any club in Frontier League history.

FIELD MANAGER - CHRIS WIDGER

Former major league catcher Chris Widger returns for his third season as the manager of the Sussex County Miners.

Widger brings managerial experience from the Kansas City Royals organization, most-recently at Double-A Northwest Arkansas. He skipped the Class A-Advanced Quad Cities River Bandits to the High-A Central championship in 2021 as well. He also spent one season in the Atlantic League managing the Camden RiverSharks.

As a player, Widger was a third-round selection by the Seattle Mariners in the 1992 MLB Draft, and made his major league debut for the club in 1995, embarking on a 10-season career in the big leagues with six different organizations.

FIELD MANAGER - GREG TAGERT

Greg Tagert enters his 30th overall season as a professional manager in 2025 and second with Tri-City. He previously managed in the Frontier League with Ohio Valley (1995), Evansville (1997-00), Dubois County (2001-02), Kenosha (2003), and Springfield/Ozark (2004), amassing 412 victories.

From 2005-21, Tagert managed the Gary SouthShore RailCats in the Northern League and American Association, winning three league titles as well as the 2001, 2007, and 2009 Manager of the Year honors. In 2022, he also managed the Arizona Complex League rookie affiliate of the San Francisco Giants before spending the 2023 season back in the American Association with Winnippeg.

FIELD MANAGER - JONATHAN ALBALADEJO

Jonathan Albaladejo was hired as the fourth manager in the history of the Trois-Rivières Aigles in October after spending last season as the pitching coach for the Lake Erie Crushers.

Albaladejo previously coached with the Empire State Greys in the Frontier League as well as in the Empire League and Mexican League since he retired as a player in 2020.

Originally from Puerto Rico, Albaladejo had a long career as a pitcher, appearing in 778 games over 19 seasons, including 66 games over parts of five seasons in the Majors with the Nationals, Yankees, and Diamondbacks. He also spent four seasons in "partner league" baseball in the Atlantic League from 2016-19.

FIELD MANAGER - TOM VAETH

Tom Vaeth enters his fifth season managing the Washington Wild Things. He guided the club to playoff appearances in three of his four season, including a pair of berths in the championship series in 2021 and 2024 as well as the West Division title last year

Prior to coming to Washington, Vaeth spent 17 seasons as the hitting coach of the Winnipeg Goldeyes in the American Association. Before that, he worked in player development for the Baltimore Orioles for five years, with one of his notable duties being throwing batting practice at Camden Yards.

Vaeth has also coached at the junior college and Division-I levels, served as a bullpen catcher, and scouted for two MLB teams.

FIELD MANAGER - BOBBY JENKS

Former major league pitcher Bobby Jenks returned to the "South Side" of Chicago as Windy City ThunderBolts manager in 2024. He is best known as the star rookie closer for the 2005 World Series Champion Chicago White Sox. A two-time All-Star (2006, 2007), Jenks amassed 173 saves in 348 career appearances across seven seasons for the White Sox and the Boston Red Sox from 2005-11.

The 2025 season will be the third for Jenks as a professional manager, having previously skippered the Grand Junction Rockies to the 2022 Pioneer League title while also earning league Manager of the Year honors. In 2023, he was the pitching coach for the Princeton WhistlePigs in the collegiate Appalachian League.

2023 RECAP

The 2023 baseball season began early for several Frontier League players, as 20 players represented nine different countries in the World Baseball Classic.

The New Jersey Jackals returned professional baseball to historic Hinchliffe Stadium in Paterson for the first time since the 1940s when they opened their season. One of the few former Negro League ballparks still standing, Hinchliffe Stadium received a $108 million makeover to allow it to reopen after 26 years.

On the field, May 12 marked the first game in Frontier League history where both starting pitchers had MLB experience, as Gateway's Josh Lucas faced off against Florence's Mike Kickham. Schaumburg's Chase Dawson set a record with three triples in the Boomers' game on June 24 while Florence's Zade Richardson tied the single-game mark with six hits on July 28.

Schaumburg's Jackson Hickert, Antonio Frias, and Dylan Stutsman combined for the season's only no-hitter on June 8. Single-season records were set by league MVP James Nelson from New Jersey, who scored 111 runs, while Ottawa's Zac Westcott tied the league mark with 22 games started.

The Québec Capitales won 17 of their final 25 games to repeat as East Division champions, while New Jersey and Sussex County earned their first playoff berths since joining the Frontier League. In the West, the Gateway Grizzlies won 12 of 13 games in late May/early June to vault to the top of the division, where they remained for the rest of the season and earned their first playoff berth since 2012. Schaumburg and Evansville also repeated as Wild Card qualifiers.

A league-record 17,066 fans witnessed a tremendous Championship Series between two of the longest-tenured teams in Partner League baseball. The Evansville Otters made their seventh appearance, while Québec advanced to a league final for the 12th time. The Capitales trailed entering the bottom of the ninth inning in games 1 and 2 before winning both times on walk-off home runs. With the series shifting to Bosse Field, Evansville rebounded by winning the next two games and forcing a winner-take-all game 5 for the fourth time in the past five seasons. Québec prevailed to become the first back-to-back champion since the 2013-14 Schaumburg Boomers.

The Frontier League began preparations for the 2024 season immediately following the playoffs by announcing that professional baseball was returning to Campanelli Stadium in Brockton, Massachusetts for the first time since 2011. The New England Knockouts add metro Boston to Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, New York, Pittsburgh, and St. Louis as Major League markets with Frontier League clubs.

2022 RECAP

The 2022 season was the second season for the Frontier League as a Professional Partner League of Major League Baseball, and featured the debut of their partnership with FloBaseball and FloSports that allowed fans to watch every Frontier League game live, and follow their teams both at home and on the road. The season also saw the debut of the new "Sudden Death" rule, which determined the outcome of games if still tied after one extra inning of play. In total, there were six games decided this way in 2022.

Several milestones were reached during the 2022 season. The New York Boulders broke the record for team home runs in a game with nine, defeating Tri-City 23-8 on July 12. Chase Dawson of the Schaumburg Boomers broke the record for most triples in a season with 24. Jorge Tavaréz of the New Jersey Jackals threw the lone no-hitter of the year, eliminating Sussex County from the playoff race on September 2. Santiago Chirino of the New Jersey Jackals, already the Frontier League's all-time leader in games played and hits, set new league records for runs scored (440) and doubles (140). Also, the Washington Wild Things got their 1,000th win as a club in 2022, and became the fastest team to 1,000 wins in Frontier League history.

The marketing highlight involved the Tri-City signing of right-handed pitcher Kumar Rocker in June. Rocker made five starts for the ValleyCats, posting a 1.35 ERA and striking out 32 batters over 20 innings, as he prepared for the MLB Draft. The Texas Rangers selected Rocker with the 3rd overall pick, while the Pittsburgh Pirates selected Josh Loeschorn from the New York Boulders later in the draft.

Led by Frontier League Manager of the Year, Tom Vaeth, the Washington Wild Things were the first team to clinch a playoff spot, winning the West Division title. They spent much of the regular season at the top of the division, and stayed there for good after the All-Star Break. In the East division, the Québec Capitales owned a 12-game winning streak in the first half, dominating the division while staying in first place for the entirety of the season.

In the playoffs, Schaumburg faced off against Evansville and New York battled Ottawa in the West and East Division Wild Card Games. The Boomers defeated the Otters 5-1, while Ottawa rolled over the Boulders 8-2. In the East Division Series, the Capitales would have a tough fight with the Titans, but ultimately advanced in the do-or-die Game 3. Meanwhile, in the West Division Series, Schaumburg swept the Wild Things in the best-of-three set.

In the Frontier League Championship Series, the Boomers and Capitales split the first two games in Schaumburg, with Québec taking the first game 6-3 and Schaumburg taking game two 9-1. The series then shifted to Québec, where the Capitales proceeded to take the next two games, winning the third game of the series 4-3 in walk-off fashion on a two-run double with two outs in ninth by Ruben Castro. Castro would remain the hero in the next game by hitting a walk-off sacrifice fly which allowed the Capitales to take game 4 and win the championship.

33 players were signed to MLB organizations in 2022. There were also a few former Frontier League players that made their Major League debut. Adam Oller (Windy City, 2019) and Tyler Danish (Sussex County, 2021) make the opening day rosters for Oakland and Boston, respectively. Jared Koenig, a Lake Erie Crusher in 2019, made his debut with the Oakland Athletics. Fernando Cruz, who played with the New Jersey Jackals from 2016-2018 in the Can-Am League, also made his MLB debut with the Cincinnati Reds. Former Traverse City Beach Bum Luke Barker (2016) was called up by the Milwaukee Brewers, while 2019 Frontier League draft pick Nick Duron (Southern Illinois, 2019) was promoted by Philadelphia to the big leagues.

2021 RECAP

The planned debut of the newly expanded Frontier League had to wait a year after the impacts of the COVID-19 resulted in the suspension of the 2020 season. The Frontier League grew by two additional clubs at the end of 2020, adding the Ottawa Titans as an expansion team plus the Tri-City ValleyCats from the former New York-Penn League. The Titans return professional baseball to Canada's capital city and will call Raymond Chabot Grant-Thornton Park, former home of the Triple-A Ottawa Lynx, to the Frontier League. Tri-City brings a tremendously successful operation to the Frontier League, serving the fans of the Capital District of New York. The closure of the Canada-United States border resulted in pushing the Ottawa Titans' first game to the 2022 season. Ottawa, Québec, and Trois-Rivières were replaced in the 2021 season by Équipe Québec—a team that used the Canadian players from the Capitales, Aigles, and Titans to craft the base of their roster. They spent the first half of the season on the road and returned to Québec July 30 to face the Sussex County Miners. Their home games were split between Stade Canac in Québec City and Stade Quillorama in Trois-Rivières.

The 2021 season was the first for the Frontier League as a Partner League of Major League Baseball and featured the debut of FrontierLeagueTV.com, a live-streaming service powered by Vimeo that allowed fans to watch every Frontier League game live and follow their teams both at home and on the road. The season also saw the debut of the new home run derby tiebreaker rule, which determined the outcome of games if still tied after an extra inning of play. In total, there were 27 home run derbies that took place.

Several milestones were reached during the 2021 season. The Windy City ThunderBolts broke a league stolen base record as a team, stealing 204 bases in the season, and the Evansville Otters broke the league record for strikeouts (pitching), recording 843 as a team. Trey Hair of the Sussex County Miners tied the Frontier League single-game record with three home runs on June 1 against New Jersey. Matt McGarry hit for the cycle for the Schaumburg Boomers on June 18 against Southern Illinois. There were three no-hitters—one by Michael Austin of the Southern Illinois Miners, and two combined no-hitters by the Tri-City ValleyCats and the Joliet Slammers. Zach Strecker of the Washington Wild Things became the all-time Frontier League saves leader, surpassing Eric Massingham's previous record of 70 career saves and finishing the season with 74 career saves. Also notable, Evansville Otters manager and Frontier League Manager of the Year Andy McCauley picked up his 1000th professional managerial victory with an Otters win over Gateway.

Led by Frontier League MVP Quincy Nieporte, the Schaumburg Boomers were the first team to clinch a playoff spot, winning the Central Division title with nearly a week to go in the season. They spent much of the regular season at the top of the Central Division but stayed there for good after a series win over Lake Erie in mid-July. The Washington Wild Things followed by taking the Northeast Division after a four-game sweep over the Sussex County Miners. Washington started the season struggling, with a record of just 13-20 after July 4. From there, they won six straight and went on to go 43-20 over the final two and a half months of the season to claim the Northeast Division title. The other two division races came down to the final weekend of the season. The Florence Y'alls—with a league-leading 57-38 record—clinched the loaded West Division by half a game over Evansville. Florence began the year winning their first seven games and spent much of the year neck-and-neck with the Otters for the top spot in the West. These two teams finished with the two best records in the Frontier League in 2021. Meanwhile, Équipe Québec won the Atlantic Division title on the final day, finishing just two games ahead of the Tri-City ValleyCats. Québec used a season-high eleven-game winning streak in August—which included a three-game sweep of the ValleyCats—to vault themselves into first place.

In the playoffs, Schaumburg faced off against Florence and Washington battled Québec in the Divisional Round. The Boomers rolled over the Y'alls, winning in four games and outscoring them 27-12. Meanwhile, the Wild Things were down 2-1 in their series before winning games four and five in Québec and advancing to play Schaumburg in the Championship Series. In the FLCS, the Boomers and Wild Things split the first two games in Schaumburg, with Schaumburg taking the first 4-0 and Washington taking game two 6-5 after an Andrew Czech two-run homer in the ninth inning. The series then shifted to Washington, where the Wild Things took game three after a walk-off single by Grant Heyman in the tenth inning. Facing elimination, the Boomers won game four 3-1 and forced a winner-take-all game five. In that game five, Schaumburg took an early lead with three runs in the first inning and never looked back, winning 10-4 to claim their fourth Frontier League title since joining the league in 2012—the most in league history. Kyle Arjona was named series MVP, winning games one and five while allowing just three earned runs and striking out eleven over 16.2 innings.

48 players were signed to MLB organizations in 2021, the second highest total in league history behind the 2015 season. There were also a few former Frontier League players that made it to the MLB level. Most notably, Jake Cousins (Milwaukee Brewers), Mickey Jannis (Baltimore Orioles), Tommy Nance (Chicago Cubs), and Brandyn Sittinger (Arizona Diamondbacks) all made their MLB debuts in the 2021 season. Cousins helped the Brewers win the National League Central Division with a 2.70 ERA in 30 relief appearances. Andrew Bellatti also returned to MLB for the first time since 2015 after a brief stint in spring training with the Tri-City ValleyCats led him to the Miami Marlins—the shortest time for a player to be signed out of the Frontier League.

2019 RECAP

The 2019 season began with another MLB debut, as former Rockford Aviator and Frontier Greys hurler Nick Anderson retired the only batter he faced in the Miami Marlins' opening game. Anderson became the 22nd player who began his career in the Frontier League to advance to the Majors. Nick was traded to Tampa Bay along with former Gateway Grizzlie Trevor Richards at the MLB trade deadline on July 31 and both helped lead the Rays to a Wild Card berth. Nick was named the relief pitcher on Baseball America's All-Rookie Team following the season. On the same date as the Anderson/Richards trade the Seattle Mariners promoted former Washington Wild Things' to their MLB roster. Grotz saw action in 14 games for the Mariners, recording a 1-0 record and 4.15 ERA while striking out 18 batters in 17.1 innings.

Inside the Frontier League in 2019, Most Valuable Player Ryan Long led the Evansville Otters to their first division title in 20 years. The Otters used a 17-5 stretch in August to catch Florence and claimed first place due to their 7-5 head-to-head record over the Freedom. Florence used a stretch of 13 wins in 14 games during late June to earn their second playoff spot in the past three seasons.

The Lake Erie Crushers won their first division title in six seasons, while the River City Rascals claimed the final playoff spot. 2019 marked the eighth time in eleven seasons that the Rascals advanced to the playoffs.

Sweeps in the Division Series put Florence and River City in the Championship Series. River City took a 2-1 series lead when Tanner Murphy and Nick Anderson hit back-to-back solo home runs in the bottom of the 9th to tie then win the game. A Florence victory in game 4 shifted the action back to UC Health Stadium, making the third time in the past four years that the Championship Series went the maximum five games. The Rascals scored six times in the top of the 7th inning to take the lead and hold on for the title, giving manager Steve Brook a title in his final season as River City manager to go along with the one from his inaugural season in 2010.

Schaumburg first baseman Quincy Nieporte posted the top single-game performance of 2019 on August 12 at Gateway. Nieporte came to the plate in each of the first three innings, producing a three-run home run in the first, a bases-clearing double in the second, and a grand slam in the third. The ten RBIs set a new league single-game record.

24 players were sold to MLB organizations during the regular season, led by Evansville's five, and four each from Florence and River City. Another nine players had their contracts purchased following the season.

The media highlight came when Florence's "Dad Bod" replica jerseys worn on Father's Day were subsequently featured on MLB Network.

The biggest event of 2019 came when the Frontier League traveled to Rockland County, New York, to face the Can-Am League in the All-Star Game. Game MVP J.J. Fernandez and his Washington teammate Hector Roa combined to go five-for-eight with a double, home run, four runs scored, and four RBI while ten pitchers combined to strike out 13 Can-Am batters while walking only two and surrendering only six hits in the 7-0 victory.

The All-Star festivities were just a precursor to the biggest announcement in the Frontier League's 27-year history. A press conference on October 17 streamed on-line and viewed by over 500 media outlets announced that the New Jersey Jackals, Québec Capitales, Rockland Boulders, Sussex County Miners, and Trois-Rivières Aigles from the Can-Am League would be merging into the Frontier League. The additional clubs make the Frontier League the largest independent league while stretching the borders from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic Ocean and from the Ohio River to the Saint Lawrence Seaway.

Changes continued to occur leading up the 2020 season. Rebranding efforts led to the newly named Florence Y'alls and New York Boulders. Playoff managers Dennis Pelfrey (San Francisco Giants) and Cam Roth (Detroit Tigers) were hired to manage affiliated teams. Former Windy City pitcher Dylan Axelrod was named assistant pitching coordinator for the Los Angeles Angels while his former ThunderBolt teammates Donnie Ecker was named hitting coach for San Francisco, and Ricky Meinhold was promoted to pitching coordinator for the New York Mets. Former Chillicothe and Lake Erie infielder Drew Saylor was hired as hitting coordinator for the Kansas City Royals and former Kalamazoo infielder and manager Chris Newell was hired to manage in the New York Mets' system.

The 2018 season featured a new all-time hit leader, two more Major League debuts, a record number of alumni in the Majors, and the closest championship series since the best-of-five format was introduced for the 2000 season. Normal's Santiago Chirino lined a single to left-center in his first at-bat at Gateway on June 24 to tie former Washington Wild Thing Chris Sidick. After walking in his next two at bats, Chirino drove a single to right field in the sixth inning to earn the record. Chirino led the league with a .367 average and finished his six-season Frontier League career with 726 hits. Other individual milestones included Washington's James Harris hitting for the cycle on May 17; Windy City's Tyler Straub tying the single-game hit record with six on July 6; Evansville's Ty Hensley and Matt Chavarria combining for a no-hitter on August 11; and Lake Erie's Alex Romero setting a record with 38.1 scoreless innings (from August 1 to August 31).

The publicity highlight from 2018 occurred on June 21, when former Indianapolis Colts' Pro Bowl punter Pat McAfee started in right field for the Washington Wild Things. McAfee, a native of nearby Plum High School and West Virginia University, brought the national audience from his Barstool Sports show to Wild Things Park. The game, which was billed as "Dingers Only Night", was used to benefit the "It's About the Warrior Foundation." The It's About the Warrior Foundation is a post-9/11 veteran's organization that assists and empowers all tri-state area post-9/11 veterans and their families with its various programs.

August began with no team no more than three games out of a playoff spot, and the tight races continued to the final weekend. Washington used a 21-9 streak starting on July 27 to finish with the same record as Joliet, where the Wild Things' 7-5 head-to-head mark gave them their first division title since 2007. River City won 11 of their final 14 contests to hold off Evansville for the West title. After Washington swept Evansville and Joliet knock off the Rascals in five games in the divisional series, the Slammers took a decisive game 5 of the Championship Series giving manager Jeff Isom his first professional title in his 19-year managerial career. The five games were decided by a total of eight runs, with no game featuring more than a 2-run differential.

Former Windy City ThunderBolt Ryan Bollinger became the 35th former Frontier League player to get the call to MLB when the New York Yankees promoted him on May 23. Along with Bollinger, Robert Stock, the top pick in the 2015 Frontier League draft by the Normal CornBelts, made his MLB debut, appearing in 32 games for San Diego and posting a 2.50 ERA. A total of ten former Frontier League players saw MLB time in 2018, the most in any single season.

During the off-season several former Frontier League players and coaches were promoted in their MLB organizations. Andy Haines, who started his professional career as hitting coach for Dubois County in 2002 and later managed the 2007 Windy City ThunderBolts to their first championship, was hired as hitting coach by the Milwaukee Brewers. Joining Andy on the Brewers' MLB staff is pitching coach Chris Hook, who served in the same role for the Florence Freedom for their first five seasons. Guillermo Martinez from the 2009-10 Windy City ThunderBolts was promoted to hitting coach by the Toronto Blue Jays and Jeff Albert was named hitting coach for the St. Louis Cardinals. Former ThunderBolts and Gateway Grizzlies third baseman Donnie Ecker was named assistant MLB hitting coach for Cincinnati as well.

The 2017 Frontier League season began with early excitement as Evansville's Shane Weedman tossed only the second no-hitter in the Otters' 22-season history on May 13, striking out 11 Southern Illinois Miners in the process. The Florence Freedom won their first eight games of the season to jump to the top of the West Division, a spot that they held for the bulk of the season in winning their first division title. The Schaumburg Boomers also started the season hot, winning 24 of their first 32 games. The Boomers rebounded from a league-worst 41-55 record in 2016 to a 66-30 mark, the third most wins in Frontier League history.

While the two division winners were set with more than a week remaining in the regular season, five clubs entered the final series of the year within reach of a wild card spot. Washington won seven of their final eight games to claim only the Wild Things' second playoff berth in the past ten seasons, while the defending champion Evansville Otters used an 8-2 streak at the end of August to get the second wild card. Schaumburg and Florence both won 3-1 first round series to create a Championship Series featuring the two All-Star Game managers.

Schaumburg's Jamie Bennett and Florence's Dennis Pelfrey were teammates in the Frontier League from 2002-04, making 2017 the first time that former teammates managed against each other in either the All-Star Game or the Championship Series. Jamie (pitcher) and Dennis (catcher) both made the 2003 All-Star Game while with the Kenosha Mammoths. Schaumburg prevailed in the finals to give the Boomers their third title in the past five seasons.

Key individual achievements included Traverse City's Will Kengor tying the record with three home runs on July 9 while both David Harris of Schaumburg (June 22) and L.J. Kalawaia from Lake Erie (July 22) hit for the cycle. On the pitching side, River City's Nick Kennedy became the career leader for games pitched with 255 outings over his six seasons with the Rascals. Southern Illinois set a new record for runs scored in an inning with 15 in the 4th at Normal on June 4, a mark that Evansville tied on July 25 against Traverse City (also the 4th inning). Harris had a quality all-around season by hitting .344 with 13 home runs, 65 RBI, and 13 stolen bases to become the first Boomer named Most Valuable Player. Evansville's Max Duval won Pitcher of the Year after leading the league in ERA by a quarter of a run, and had the most strikeout when the Miami Marlins purchased his contract. Kyano Cummings, also of Evansville, became the second player in three years out of the California Winter League to claim Rookie of the Year honors, while Washington's all-star outfielder Rashad Brown earned the Citizenship Award.

The Cincinnati Reds promoted Ariel Hernandez of the 2015 Frontier Greys on April 23, making the first from the Greys teams and the 32nd overall to advance. Hernandez made his MLB debut the following night, retiring all eight batters that he faced, including five by strikeout. Hernandez was one of nine former Frontier League players to appear in Major League games in 2017, including former Florence Freedom hurler Aaron Wilkerson, whose debut with the Milwaukee Brewers included holding the St. Louis Cardinals to only two hits and one run in seven innings. The path to MLB continued at the beginning of the 2018 season, as Trevor Richards, who made his professional debut with Gateway in 2015, continued the work that had him named Minor League Pitcher of the Year for the Miami Marlins by making their starting rotation.

Several former Frontier League personnel received significant achievements in MLB as well. Robert Ford, the Broadcaster of the Year in 2003 and 2004 with the Kalamazoo Kings, was able to call the final out of the 2017 World Series as the Houston Astros' radio play-by-play man. Former Dubois County hitting coach and Windy City manager Andy Haines was promoted to the Chicago Cubs' Major League staff for 2018 as their assistant hitting coach. Jeff Albert from the 2002 Washington Wild Things was named to the same role for the Houston Astros. Fran Riordan, a former All-Star player and the Frontier League's winningest manager, was promoted to manage Oakland's Triple-A club, the Nashville Sounds. Former Schaumburg Boomer and two-time Frontier League champion Frank Pfister was named Mental Skills Coach for the Cincinnati Reds. Two former FL pitching coaches, Mark Dewey (Washington) and Chris Hook (Florence) were named co-pitching coordinators for the Milwaukee Brewers, while former Evansville pitcher and long-time Frontier League pitching coach Brendan Sagara was hired as the Chicago Cubs' pitching coordinator. Jason Simontacchi, the 1998 Pitcher of the Year while with the Springfield Capitals, was hired for the same role with Kansas City, while his former Springfield teammate Steve Barningham was promoted to Global Cross-checker by the New York Mets.

2016 RECAP

The 2016 season was the tightest since the Frontier League schedule expanded to 96 games, as with three weeks left in the regular season, all 12 clubs were within 2.5 games of a playoff berth. Southern Illinois used a 20-3 run from June 4-July 1 to vault to the top of the West Division, where they remained for the rest of the season to claim their third consecutive division title. The Miners also became the first club in Frontier League history to win 60+ games in three consecutive seasons.

In the East, Joliet used a streak of 12 wins in 15 games in early June and spent the bulk of the season in first place to qualify for the playoffs for the first time since 2011. Evansville won 10 of their final 14 games to claim the top Wild Card spot, while River City's victory on the final day of the regular season edged them past Lake Erie for the remaining position.

The Rascals advanced to their sixth championship series in the past eight seasons to face the Otters, who advanced for the first time since their 2006 Championship. The series went the maximum five games for the first time since the 2009 season, with the Otters pulling out a 1-0 victory in front of the home Bosse Field crowd in what was described as the tightest deciding game in Frontier League history.

On-field excitement began early as Kramer Champlin celebrated receiving his 2015 Championship ring at Traverse City's home opener by tossing the first no-hitter in Beach Bums history. Gateway's Brandon Thomas hit a grand slam on August 21 against Joliet with the ball leaving the stadium and crashing through the front windshield of Thomas's own pickup. Video of the shot and resulting damage received national publicity, and Thomas was interviewed live on ESPN from GCS Ballpark the following evening.

Evansville's long-time Flag Chairman Marvin Gray, a fixture at Bosse Field and sporting events throughout Indiana for over 60 years, passed away on July 27.

Four more players made their Major League debuts in 2017, starting with Josh Smoker, the 2nd overall pick in the 2014 Frontier League draft, who was called up to be the 26th player for the New York Mets' double-header on July 26. Smoker did not appear that day but was recalled on August 19 and saw action in 20 games with a 3-0 record. Former London Ripper and Florence Freedom outfielder Stephen Cardullo was promoted by the Colorado Rockies on August 26, and celebrated his 29th birthday five days later by hitting home runs in both games of a double-header, including a grand slam.

Jose Martinez from the 2014 Rockford Aviators also got the call from St. Louis on September 6, and hit .438 over 12 games for the Cardinals. Chris Smith, who came out of the 2010 Frontier League draft and saw action with the Lake Erie Crushers, Traverse City Beach Bums, and Washington Wild Things, was promoted by the Toronto Blue Jays as bullpen support for the last week of the regular season. Off the field, Jason Benetti, who began his broadcasting career as the voice of the Windy City ThunderBolts in 2006, became the first former Frontier League broadcaster to be named the television voice of a Major League team when he was hired by the Chicago White Sox for the 2016 season.

The Florence Freedom hosted the All-Star Game for the second time in their history, with the host West Division posting a 11-4 victory aided by game MVP Nik Balog's 3-run home run. The All-Star events also saw the induction of Richard Austin, Willie Edwards, Charlie Lisk, Joey Metropoulos, and Matt Schweitzer, along with recognition of long-time umpire Max McLeary as a Special Contributor, and the acknowledgement of Brian Tollberg becoming the first former Frontier League player to advance to the Major Leagues as the Significant Moment.

2015 RECAP

2015 featured playoff races that were not decided until the final day of the regular season and another MLB debut. Brandon Cuniff, who played for River City and Southern Illinois, spent the bulk of 2015 in the Atlanta Braves' bullpen, setting a Braves' rookie record for the most games pitched at the start of a MLB career without allowing a hit.

The Normal CornBelters made the playoffs for the first time by winning the West Division, while the Southern Illinois Miners defended their East Division title. The Rockford Aviators and Florence Freedom edged out Evansville for the final two playoff spots.

The River City Rascals defeated Florence, then Southern Illinois to return to the Championship Series for the fifth time in the last seven seasons. The Rascals' Josh Silver hit two grand slams in the deciding game over the Miners, becoming the first player in either regular or post-season history to achieve this feat.

The finals were a rematch of the 2010 season, with a Traverse City sweep giving the Beach Bums their first title. River City's Taylor Ard led the league in both home runs (30) and RBI (83) to capture the MVP award, while Southern Illinois' Adam Lopez was voted Pitcher of the Year, and Brandon Tierney of the Frontier Greys selected Rookie of the Year.

Normal's Patrick McKenna posted one of the best single games in league history on August 2 with three home runs and nine RBI, both tying league records. A league-record crowd of 6,572 saw the West Division top the East in the All-Star Game in Schaumburg, with Rockford's Michael Hur selected as game MVP.

The Greys received national attention through a feature story in Maxim Magazine, and six members of their pitching staff went on to be signed by MLB organizations. The Washington Wild Things also received national publicity, as a story on Pete Rose featured pictures of the Hit King wearing a Wild Things uniform during an appearance at CONSOL Energy Park.

Former Grey Balbino Fuenmayor became the first Frontier League alum to be selected for the MLB Futures Game, and following the season, former Rockford Aviators Jose Martinez (Royals) and Josh Smoker (Mets) were added to their club's 40-man MLB roster. The Chicago White Sox hired Jason Benetti, who broke in as the radio broadcaster for Windy City in 2006, as their TV announcer for home games.

The second Frontier League Hall of Fame Class was inducted as part of the All-Star festivities, with former players Mike Breyman, Bobby Chandler, Stephen Holdren, Jason James, and Chris Sidick inducted along with special contributor Bob Wolfe.

2014 RECAP

The 2014 season was a banner one for the Frontier League. With the playoff field expanding from four teams to six, a tight playoff race ensued. The West Division race ended with both the River City Rascals and Schaumburg Boomers holding 61-35 records, with the Rascals taking the division title and advancing to the divisional playoff round by virtue of a head-to-head advantage. The East Division sent four teams to the playoffs, the Southern Illinois Miners (60-36), Evansville Otters (57-37), Washington Wild Things (57-39) and Lake Erie Crushers (52-43). Evansville reached the postseason for the first time since 2006, while Washington's postseason appearance was their first since 2007.

In the Wild Card matchups, the Boomers knocked off the Crushers while the Wild Things beat the Otters. The divisional round saw the Rascals beat the Wild Things and the Boomers beat the Miners, setting up an all-West Division championship series, with Schaumburg looking to repeat as Frontier League Champions. The championship series began in O'Fallon with a 5-1 victory for the home team. In game 2, Schaumburg found success as shortstop Gerard Hall homered for the second straight game and Justin Erasmus went 5.2 strong innings, leading the Boomers to a 6-2 win and a split in O'Fallon before heading home for games 3 and 4. Game 3 saw an offensive explosion for the Boomers, who hung 11 runs on Rascals pitching and took a commanding 2 games to 1 lead with an 11-2 victory. Game 4 ended triumphantly for the Boomers as well, as they won 6-2, with the Boomers becoming the third team in the league's history to win consecutive championships. Hall was selected as the Championship Series MVP.

The 2014 season also saw numerous historic individual performances in the Frontier League. Reliever Patrick Crider of the Rascals broke his own record by appearing in 65 games, and Washington closer Jonathan Koutis set a new league record with 32 saves. Southern Illinois' Chris Burke tied a Frontier League record with 9 RBI in a July 30 game that saw him also hit for the cycle, and Gateway's Richard Seigel (June 28) and Ryan Cavan of Southern Illinois (August 19) both tied a league record with 6 hits in a single game. Frank Florio of the Frontier Greys had a big day on July 30 as well, joining Burke in hitting for the cycle. Windy City's Mike Torres became the Frontier League's Iron Man when he appeared in his 287th consecutive game on May 25. Torres' streak, which began on June 1, 2011, eventually ended on July 29 at 339 games.

Entering the last couple of weeks of the season, four no-hitters had taken place. Rick Teasley of Southern Illinois threw a 7-inning no hitter on June 5, Travis Tingle of Windy City threw a pair of no-hitters on June 19 (5 innings) and August 20 (7 innings), while Evansville's Chad James threw a 7-inning no-no on August 20. Matt Sergey of Washington, however, took impressive pitching performances to another level on August 24 against Gateway, throwing the first perfect game in Frontier League history in a full 9 inning game. Shayne Houck of the Otters was named the season's MVP, while Southern Illinois' Matt Bywater won Pitcher of the Year and Rockford Aviators' Tanner Witt won the Rookie of the Year award.

A historic number of Frontier League players were picked up by MLB organizations, as over 50 players got the call to affiliated baseball. Drew Rucinski, who played for the Rockford RiverHawks and Aviators, made his big league debut for the Angels, becoming the 26th former Frontier League player to reach the show. Also representing the Frontier League in the big leagues in 2014 were Dylan Axelrod (Reds), Steve Delabar (Blue Jays), Vidal Nuno (Yankees and Diamondbacks), Tanner Roark (Nationals) and Joe Thatcher (Diamondbacks and Angels). Prior to the 2014 season, former Traverse City Beach Bums manager Gregg Langbehn was hired by the Cleveland Indians as their first MLB Replay Coordinator, followed just days later by former Windy City ThunderBolts manager Mike Kashirsky, who was hired to the same position by the Chicago White Sox. Following the season, alumnus Darren Bush was promoted by the Oakland Athletics to hitting coach.

The 2014 season also saw the initial class of Frontier League Hall of Famers inducted at All-Star week, hosted by the Gateway Grizzlies. Players Morgan Burkhart, Aaron Ledbetter, Scott Pinoni, Fran Riordan and Kirk Taylor were selected for induction, as were special contributor Dr. W. Chris Hanners and the special moment of Brett Gray's 25 strikeout game for the London Werewolves.

Entering the final three games of the 2013 regular season, only the Schaumburg Boomers had clinched a playoff berth while six clubs were in the running for the final four spots, and two different scenarios would have resulted in a four-way tie. The Boomers won 26 of their final 35 regular season games to take the West Division title, while in the East the battle came down to a head-to-head series between Lake Erie and Traverse City to end the season. The Crushers won the first two games to clinch their first division crown after a run of 19-2 to begin August launched them into the playoff race.

Schaumburg won the title, becoming the first club in the ten seasons that the Frontier League has used a best-of-five format for both playoff rounds to sweep both series. More impressively, the Boomers were either tied or trailing at some point after the start of the 7th inning in all six games. Mike Giovenco was named Championship Series MVP, pitching in all three games, and winning two while not allowing any runs.

For individual accomplishments, Traverse City's Scott Dunn became the first pitcher in league history to win his first 14 decisions of the season, including a stretch of victories in nine consecutive starts, to run away with the Pitcher of the Year award. The Most Valuable Player vote was one of the closest in history, with league RBI leader Jacob Tanis of Florence winning the balloting. River City catcher Danny Canela led the Frontier League with a .360 batting average and was voted Rookie of the Year. Gateway's Landon Hernandez hit three home runs in a game on August 3, Joliet's Niko Vasquez hit for the cycle on September 4, and the Grizzlies' Tim Brown tossed a no-hitter on July 20. On August 31, Chase Doremus, Lucas Goodgion, Jason Sullivan, Corey Kimes, Matt Dillon, and Brett Zawacki of the Slammers combined to toss a 10-inning no-hitter. It is believed that this game was the first time in professional baseball history that six pitchers combined to hold another club hitless.

In addition, Florence's Junior Arrojo broke his own single-season record by getting hit by 38 pitches while Evansville's Eric Massingham set the career mark for saves. In a game that was suspended due to rain the previous night, Washington and Windy City also battled for five hours and 53 minutes as well as 19-innings on June 1-2 for what turned out to be the first game of a double-header to mark the longest Frontier League contest by both innings and time.

Two more Frontier League alumni made their Major League debuts in 2013. Former Washington Wild Thing Vidal Nuno won the James P. Dawson Award as the best rookie in New York Yankees' spring training and pitched in five games (three starts) with a 1-2 record and 2.25 ERA during the regular season. Former Southern Illinois Miner Tanner Roark saw action in 14 games (five starts) for the Washington Nationals, winning his first seven decisions as part of a 7-1 record and 1.51 ERA. Steve Delabar of the Toronto Blue Jays, who spent part of the 2008 season with the Florence Freedom, became the third former Frontier League player to be selected a MLB All-Star when he won the fan's Final Vote contest for the American League. Delabar struck out the only batter whom he faced, Buster Posey of the San Francisco Giants, in the game.

In the press box, Robert Ford (Houston Astros) and Aaron Goldsmith (Seattle Mariners) became the first two former Frontier League broadcasters to become full-time MLB play-by-play voices. Both Robert and Aaron began their professional careers in the Frontier League—Robert with the 2003-04 Kalamazoo Kings and Aaron with the 2007 Gateway Grizzlies.

2012 RECAP

The Frontier League added to their presence in the Chicago area in 2012 with the debut of the Schaumburg Boomers. The Boomers brought an outstanding operation to the Frontier League both on and off the field, starting with over 6,000 fans to watch their inaugural home game.

In his first managerial job, the Boomers' Jamie Bennett, who spent time in Dubois County, Kenosha, and Springfield/Ozark during his playing career, managed the West Division in the All-Star Game where he battled Traverse City's Gregg Langbehn, who set a record by having 10 of his players selected for the game. Over 5,000 fans attended the game at The Corn Crib in Normal, where London's Joash Brodin was named MVP.

Going into the final weekend of the regular season, only Traverse City had clinched a playoff berth, with Florence, Gateway, Lake Erie, Schaumburg, Southern Illinois, and Windy City all in the running for the three remaining spots. The Gateway Grizzlies won 16 out of 20 games in late July to jump into the race and finished with nine victories in their final 12 games to take the West Division title. The Florence Freedom won 13 of their final 14 games to take the top Wild Card spot while the Southern Illinois Miners qualified for the playoffs for the fourth time in the past five seasons.

The Miners swept the Beach Bums in the first round while the Freedom defeated the Grizzlies in a series that went the full five games, setting up a Championship Series featuring two first-time participants. Southern Illinois captured their first title behind an 8-for-16 hitting performance from Championship Series MVP Cannon Lester.

Seven of the 14 teams had a former Frontier League player as their field manager. Individual achievements included a no-hitter by Windy City's Tyson Corley, Gateway's Jonathan Johnson reaching base safely in 69 consecutive games, Rockford's Javier Herrera hitting for the cycle, Traverse City's Ryan Still becoming the first player to walk 100 times in a season, and Darian Sandford setting the stolen base record with 71 for Southern Illinois and Washington. League MVP Jose Vargas tied the single-season mark with 100 RBI for Traverse City while Windy City's Mike Recchia broke the records for strikeouts (177) and shutouts (5) in a season in being voted Pitcher of the Year.

Former Evansville and Windy City pitcher Andrew Werner made his Major League debut with the San Diego Padres, becoming the 23rd player to advance to the big leagues. Following the season, former Zanesville Grey and Springfield Capital Darren Bush was named Bullpen Coach for the Oakland Athletics, becoming the first former Frontier League player to be part of a Major League coaching staff.

2011 RECAP

In 2011, the River City Rascals used a stretch of 12 wins in 13 games in late June to jump to the top of the West Division where they would remain for the remainder of the season. River City's 68 victories tied them with the 2007 Windy City ThunderBolts for the most in one season.

The Joliet Slammers played .660 baseball from July 1 through the end of August to become the first expansion team to win their division. Southern Illinois comfortably won the West wild card, while the East wild card came down to the final series with Lake Erie and Traverse City facing each other for the right to advance to the playoffs. After the teams split the first two games, it took ten innings on the final day of regular season for the Crushers to notch a 3-1 victory.

Joliet and River City both advanced in the Divisional round, leading to a Championship Series between the two division winners. After the Rascals took game 1 in River City, Joliet rebounded to win the next three games to bring the Frontier League Cup to the City of Champions.

2011 saw several on-field achievements highlighted by Joliet's Andrew Moss tossing the 15th no-hitter in Frontier League history against the Lake Erie Crushers. Moss' gem came just a few hours after the Cleveland Indians were no-hit by the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim 20 miles to the east of All Pro Freight Stadium, and resulted in national coverage of two professional games featuring no-hitters by the visiting clubs on the same day in the same metropolitan area. Joliet's Ryan Quigley recorded 28 saves to set a new single-season record, while Windy City's Dustin Williams set a new mark by striking out 157 batters. River City swept the MVP and Pitcher of the Year awards, with Stephen Holdren finishing in the top-5 in home runs, RBI, and batting average, while Josh Lowey was in the top-5 in victories, strikeouts, and ERA.

Joliet's Erik Lis had a triple and drove in two runs to lead the East Division to an All-Star Game victory in front of the largest crowd in All Pro Freight Stadium history. Two more Frontier League alumni made their MLB debuts in 2011, as former Washington Wild Thing Tom Cochran was called up by the Cincinnati Reds for a nationally televised game in late May, and former Windy City ThunderBolt Dylan Axelrod made four appearances (three starts) for the Chicago White Sox in September, finishing with a 1-0 record, 2.89 ERA, and 19 strikeouts in 18.2 innings.

2010 RECAP

The 2010 season saw the opening of another new ballpark (The Corn Crib, home of the Normal CornBelters), two record winning-streaks, and a new Frontier League all-time home run king.

Over 5,800 fans were at The Corn Crib on June 1 when professional baseball returned to the Bloomington-Normal area for the first time in 70 years. Meanwhile, the Southern Illinois Miners shattered the league record for a consecutive game winning streak, posting 20 consecutive victories from June 9-28.

The Miners 39-9 record at the All-Star Break was the best ever in the Frontier League, and Southern Illinois placed a league-record 10 players in the All-Star Game, which they hosted at Rent One Park in Marion. In the East Division, the Oakland County Cruisers won 29 of 37 games, despite playing all but six on the road, to give first year field manager Gera Alvarez the All-Star nod.

The extensive travel for the Cruisers, who played 78 games on the road, combined by a league-record 20 home game winning streak for the Windy City ThunderBolts from July 22-August 25, gave Windy City their third division title in four seasons. The ThunderBolts joined the 1997-2000 Evansville Otters and the 2002-2007 Washington Wild Things as the only teams to make the playoffs in at least four consecutive seasons. While Southern Illinois maintained their lead in the West the entire season, both wild card races came down to the season's final weekend, with River City edging out Gateway in the West, and Traverse City reaching the playoffs for the first time in their five seasons in the East.

The Divisional Series matchups both featured comebacks, as the Beach Bums dropped game 1 to Windy City before taking the next three, and Southern Illinois took the first two games from River City before the Rascals rebounded to game the final three games, including a 10-inning victory in the deciding game. In the Championship Series, Traverse City took the opening game with River City winning the next three for their first title. Championship Series MVP Josh Lowey threw a complete game in game 3, which was spread out over two days due to rain, retiring all 15 batters that he faced after the game restarted.

Gateway's Charlie Lisk won the regular season MVP award in a year that saw him break the career home run record. Joe Augustine from Southern Illinois was the Pitcher of the Year, while Windy City's Dustin Williams won Rookie of the Year.

Between the regular season and the playoffs, over 1.52 million fans saw Frontier League baseball in 2010, setting a new record.

2009 RECAP

Two major league milestones were set in 2009. Rockford outfielder Jason James hit safely in 40 consecutive games from June 2 to July 18 to break the record set by former Johnstown Steal and Richmond Rooster Kevin Holt, while Kalamazoo's Fran Riordan overtook Greg Tagert as the all-time winningest field manager in Frontier League history.

Other individual accomplishments included Florence's Preston Vancil tossing a no-hitter in only his second professional appearance, Windy City's Robert Perry tying the league record with a six-hit game, and Traverse City's John Alonso hitting for the cycle.

Both the Gateway Grizzlies and Lake Erie Crushers received national television exposure. The Grizzlies were featured on the Travel Channel's Man v. Food show for their "Baseball's Best" line-up of concession items while the Crushers had an ESPN crew follow the team to document the story of pitcher Josh Faiola, who spent the season living at the Belvedere of Westlake, as assisted living facility located just down I-90 from the Crushers' ballpark.

The East Division captured the All-Star Game, helped by back-to-back home runs from game MVP Ryan Basham of the Florence Freedom, and Home Run Derby champion Grant Psomas of the Washington Wild Things. In a playoff race where none of the participants clinched berths until the final weekend of the regular season, the Windy City ThunderBolts became only the third team to qualify in three consecutive seasons while the Kalamazoo Kings repeated as East Division champions.

Both were knocked out in the first round, however, as Frontier League Manager of the Year Chad Parker led the River City Rascals against the expansion Crushers in the Championship Series. After dropping the first two games in the best-of-five series, Lake Erie rebounded to win the final three games and join the 1997 Canton Crocodiles as the only expansion team from the last 15 years to win the title.

Joey Metropolitous of the Southern Illinois Miners was selected league MVP, with Paul Fagan of the Lake Erie Crushers as the Pitcher of the Year, and Windy City's Vinnie Scarduzio the Rookie of the Year.

Two more former players made their Major League Baseball debuts, with former Florence Freedom and Ohio Valley Redcoat pitcher Chris Jakubauskas (the first pick in the Frontier League's 2003 draft) making the Opening Day roster for the Seattle Mariners and Clay Zavada getting called up to the Arizona Diamondbacks' bullpen less than one year after suiting up for the Southern Illinois Miners.

2008 RECAP

In 2008, the Frontier League drew 1.46 million fans to its 11 home clubs, as the Midwest team operated as a road team the entire year. The Southern Illinois Miners again paced the league by attracting over 218,000 fans.

The League's 16th Annual All-Star Game was played in beautiful Wuerfel Park in Traverse City, Michigan, and saw in excess of 9,000 fans in attendance for two nights of festivities. The East All-Stars won the game, in a tie-breaking All-Star Home Run Derby. Florence's Angel Molina garnered MVP honors.

The Kalamazoo Kings were featured prominently in a story-line of the nationally syndicated comic strip Gil Thorp that ran for several weeks in July. In the Championship Series, Homer Stryker Field in Kalamazoo was flooded with over 3 feet of water due to storms. The entire series was moved to Windy City's Standard Bank Stadium. The ThunderBolts took advantage of the situation and swept the Kings 3 games to 0 to claim their second Frontier League Championship in a row and became only the second team in league history to win back-to-back titles.

Windy City First Baseman Phillip Hawke claimed the league's Most Valuable Player Award. Ryan Bird of Southern Illinois was the Pitcher of the Year, while Kalamazoo Manager Fran Riordan was honored as the Manager of the Year.

Three additional Frontier League graduates made their Major League Baseball debuts, as outfielder Justin Christian (River City Rascals, 2003-04) and right-handed pitcher Scott Patterson (Gateway Grizzlies, 2002-05) spent time with the New York Yankees, with Patterson later appearing in games for the San Diego Padres, as well. Infielder Mike Cervenak (Chillicothe Paints, 1999-2000) was called up as well, by the Philadelphia Phillies. In addition, former Evansville Otter George Sherrill became the second Frontier League alum to be named an MLB All-Star, as the left-hander tossed 2.1 scoreless innings in the game.

2007 RECAP

In 2007, the Frontier League drew a record 1.5 million fans to its 12 clubs. It was the highest per game average for attendance in league history.

Much of the attendance increase was due to the addition of the Southern Illinois Miners, who drew more than 5,000 fans per game and a league-record total attendance of 259,392 fans to Rent One Park.

The league's 15th Annual All-Star Game was played in Florence, Kentucky, and was the first game ever sellout for the Freedom organization. The South All-Stars won the game, as Florence's Reggie Watson garnered MVP honors.

In a tremendous Frontier League Championship Series, the Windy City Thunderbolts came back from a 2-0 deficit to defeat the Washington Wild Things in one of the greatest Championship Series in league history. It was the first championship for the ThunderBolts in their club history as well.

Chillicothe Paints shortstop Travis Garcia earned the league's Morgan Burkhart Award as the Most Valuable Player.

2006 RECAP

In 2006, the Frontier League drew almost 1.3 million fans to its 10 clubs. This translated to an average attendance of 2,713, the highest per game attendance in league history.

The Evansville Otters opened their home schedule on May 27, when they became the first Frontier League team to draw 1,000,000 fans in their history. Much of the attendance increase was due to new facilities in Rockford, Illinois and Traverse City, Michigan.

The Frontier League's 14th Annual All-Star Game was played in Evansville's historic Bosse Field, and was televised into more than 14 million homes on Fox Sports Net. The West Division won the game in a Home Run Derby tie-breaker when Evansville's Beau Blacken slammed the game winner.

Kalamazoo's Ian Church was the MVP of the All-Star Game as well as the league MVP. He was only the second player in league history to hit more than 30 homers in a season.

In a battle of the league's two oldest teams, the Evansville Otters defeated the Chillicothe Paints 3 games to 0 to claim their first League championship.

Former River City Rascal, Josh Kinney, was the 13th former Frontier League player to play in the Major Leagues. He was an integral part of the St. Louis Cardinals run to the World Series Championship.

2005 RECAP

In 2005, the Frontier League attracted close to 1.2 million fans to its ballparks.

The Kalamazoo Kings claimed their first league title in one of the most exciting playoff series in league history, defeating the Chillicothe Paints 3 games to 2.

The Washington Wild Things hosted the All-Star Game to a sellout crowd at Falconi Field.

Frontier League clubs moved 25 players to MLB clubs, and Kalamazoo's Pete Pirman won the Morgan Burkhardt Award as the league's Most Valuable Player, eclipsing the league RBI record in the process.

Following the season, the league suspended operations of the Ohio Valley and Mid-Missouri clubs for 2006. John and Leslye Wuerfel purchased the Richmond Roosters and relocated the club to their home town of Traverse City, Michigan.

2004 RECAP

In 2004, the League again took a dramatic jump in attendance. Nearly 1.3 million fans entered the turnstiles of Frontier League stadiums.

The Gateway Grizzlies led the charge, being the first team to draw over 200,000 fans in a single season and average more than 4,000 fans per night.

The League expanded its schedule to 96 games for the first time, with the majority of those games as intradivisional play. Also, the first round of playoffs was expanded to a best-of-5 game series.

The Rockford RiverHawks claimed their first League title, sweeping the Evansville Otters 3 games to 0. Rockford's Richard Austin was named the league's MVP.

2003 RECAP

2003 was a record year for the Frontier League at the turnstiles. It was the first time in league history that the league attracted more than 1.1 million fans.

The Gateway Grizzlies led the league in attendance, and also claimed the Championship en route to garnering the Organization of the Year award.

The All-Star Game was a huge success, and was televised by Fox Sports Midwest.

In 2003, the league entered three new markets. Canton relocated to Columbia, Missouri, Dubois County relocated to Kenosha, Wisconsin and Johnstown ended an eight-year run in the League by selling to Florence, Kentucky. The Florence club played their games in Hamilton, Ohio while their new stadium was constructed and ready for play in 2004.

Former Ohio Valley Redcoat Brendan Donnelly became the first former Frontier League player selected to the MLB All-Star Game. Donnelly, pitching for the Anaheim Angels, retired all three batters that he faced in the 8th inning and was the winning pitcher in the game.

2002 RECAP

The Frontier League again saw changes for the 2002 season. Rockford, the second-largest city in the state of Illinois, replaced Springfield. Washington, Pennsylvania was also added by purchasing the Canton Crocodiles. The Wild Things opened new Falconi Field with a bang as they established a League Record for wins in a single season and took the powerful East Division crown.

Also, Canton native Mark Haidet purchased the London franchise and moved it to Canton and Thurman Munson Stadium. The Richmond Roosters won their second consecutive Frontier League title, the first franchise to do repeat as league champions.

The league set a record for attendance by drawing in excess of 950,000 fans to its parks, and saw five more graduates reach the Major Leagues, as Zanesville's Terry Pearson made the Detroit Tigers roster, Ohio Valley's Brendan Donnelly was called up by the Anaheim Angels and eventually gained a World Series win, J.J. Trujillo advanced to the Padres, and the Cardinals called up both Jason Simontacchi and Matt Duff.

The Frontier League received national publicity in July, when media outlets such as The New York Times, the Washington Post, Fox Sports Radio, and Yahoo News covered the Home Run Derby that was used to break a tie in the All-Star Game at Kalamazoo. Footage of River City's Brody Jackson hitting the winning shot was featured as the Spotlight Segment on ESPN's SportsCenter the following night.

2001 RECAP

In 2001, the Gateway Grizzlies and Kalamazoo Kings were added to the Frontier League. These additions gave the League 12 teams.

Gateway is based in Sauget, Illinois, a suburb east of St. Louis. They played their games in a temporary park in 2001, but opened a brand new $6.5 million ballpark in 2002.

In Kalamazoo, a group of local businessmen led by automobile dealer Bill Wright brought baseball back in a big way. The Kings drew over 103,000 fans on their way to being named Frontier League Organization of the Year.

Overall, league attendance reached an all-time high of 719,000 fans.

The league saw its first former manager, Jack Clark of the River City Rascals, advance to the Major Leagues as the Hitting Coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A tremendous pennant race that was settled on the last night of the season led to the Richmond Roosters claiming their first Frontier League crown.

2000 RECAP

The year 2000 propelled the Frontier League to even greater heights in publicity and notoriety, when in June, former Chillicothe Paint Brian Tollberg was called up to the Major Leagues by the San Diego Padres. Tollberg responded by winning the National League Player of the Week honors in his first week in the big leagues.

Six days after Tollberg, Frontier League legend Morgan Burkhart received his call to the Boston Red Sox. Burkhart singled in his first at-bat off of Baltimore's Mike Mussina.

Other great moments in 2000 included London's Brett Gray striking out a league record 25 batters on opening night. This almost unheard of feat drew national attention, and even saw memorabilia of the event going to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. Gray was signed by the Cincinnati Reds two days later.

There were also two no-hitters during the year, one by Chillicothe's Andy Lee, and the other by Johnstown's Matt Sheets.

The Johnstown Johnnies, who had barely played .500 ball in June, slugged their way to the league Championship. The River City Rascals also eclipsed their own league attendance record by attracting in excess of 157,000 fans.

1999 RECAP

In spite of all of the tremendous on field exploits of 1998, it was the winter of 1999 that saw the greatest changes in the Frontier League and elevated it to another level. The league expanded by two teams, making for total of ten, by adding the River City Rascals and the Cook County Cheetahs. This was important because it took the league into major metropolitan areas (St. Louis and Chicago), and both franchises were building new facilities. These were the first facilities built specifically for Frontier League franchises.

The schedule expanded to 84 games and the River City Rascals in O'Fallon, Missouri, led the way in attendance reaching an unparalleled 151,000 fans. During the season, league attendance went to over 711,000 fans, more than ten times what it drew in 1993.

The Dubois County Dragons also entered the league in 1999 by purchasing the Ohio Valley Redcoats. This purchase also meant that only the Chillicothe Paints remained from the original eight franchises that began in 1993.

Also, the League became international in flavor by moving from Kalamazoo to London, Ontario, Canada. The Werewolves would set numerous team records on their way to becoming the 1999 Frontier League Champions.

1998 probably saw the greatest level of overall talent of any year in Frontier League history to that point. Richmond's Morgan Burkhart established almost every single-season hitting record, including 36 homers in 80 games.

Other great players such as Chillicothe's Gator McBride, Scott Pinoni and Mitch House, and Springfield's Joe Ronca and Jason Simontacchi made the League extremely exciting.

The Springfield Capitals became the first franchise to win two championships.

Several major changes took place in the Frontier League rules in 1997 that led to a stronger level of competition in the league. First, the league went to an 80-game schedule. Second, the league allowed older players with more experience to play. It also allowed for players who were popular in their cities to play in the league for longer.

The Canton Crocodiles, who had replaced the Zanesville Greys franchise, won the Frontier League Championship in their inaugural season. The Evansville Otters were the first franchise to draw over 100,000 fans in a season, including their playoff games.

In 1996, two more cities were added to the Frontier League by purchasing and relocating existing franchises. They were Springfield, Illinois and Kalamazoo, Michigan. Again, with bigger markets and better stadiums, the league attendance took a major leap forward. The caliber of play also improved, and the geographical reach from which players were coming to the league also continued to expand.

The Springfield Capitals won the championship in their first season, but it was the third championship in a row for Manager Mal Fichman.

During the off-season between the 1994 and 1995 seasons, several changes took place that helped the Frontier League gain credibility and recognition. Teams were relocated to Richmond and Evansville, Indiana, as well as Johnstown, Pennsylvania. The stadiums were major upgrades to the caliber of fields that were in existence. The markets were larger and as a result, crowds that attended games were larger.

The Johnstown Steal won the 1995 title, and Evansville's attendance was greater than the entire league's attendance in 1993. The moves to Richmond and Evansville ultimately opened the door to the western expansion of the League.

1994 RECAP

Prior to the 1994 season, the owners of the Frontier League made a commitment to move forward and they hired Bill Lee as the first Frontier League Commissioner. Lee had been in the professional sports business since 1980, and the owners hoped he could help the league grow and flourish in the future.

The league got through the 1994 season with all eight teams intact. Outfielder Kendra Hanes became the first woman in modern history to play professional baseball, appearing in ten games for the Kentucky Rifles.

Ohio Valley's .746 winning percentage (50-17 record) remains the best single-season mark in league history, while the Redcoats' Corey Morris was named Most Valuable Player by putting up one of the most dominant offensive seasons in league history, hitting .394 with 19 home runs, 63 RBI, and 21 stolen bases in 66 games.

The Erie Sailors won the Frontier League Championship, and the future was looking brighter.

1993 RECAP

On June 30, 1993, the Frontier League played its first games, with Tri-State hosting West Virginia, Kentucky hosting Ohio Valley, Zanesville hosting Lancaster, and Chillicothe hosting Portsmouth. Two weeks into the inaugural season, Tri-State and West Virginia folded their operations, and the remaining six owners fought to keep the league above water. They made it through that first year with six teams, and immediately began to make plans for 1994 by adding teams in Newark, Ohio and Erie, Pennsylvania.

Portsmouth's Jim Ridenour was the first player to sign with a MLB organization, as the Chicago White Sox picked up the catcher during the Explorers' spring training, while Chillicothe's Buck Wells was the first player to be signed during the season.

Chillicothe's VA Memorial Stadium hosted the first All-Star Game, which the West Division won 3-2 on August 2. The Zanesville Greys were the first champion, and swept the post-season awards as well, with Kyle Shade as MVP, Tom Crowley as Pitcher of the Year, Tom Venditelli as Manager of the Year, and Bob Wolfe as Executive of the Year.

ORIGIN OF THE FRONTIER LEAGUE

In the winter of 1992-1993, several men got together and decided to start an independent professional baseball league to serve the West Virginia, eastern Kentucky and southeast Ohio areas. They believed they could bring professional baseball to areas that would never have a chance of affiliated professional baseball coming to their communities. The seed was planted, and they named their project The Frontier League.

These founders approached business people and interested individuals in many different cities to own and operate the franchises. College players quickly heard of the fledgling league and mostly came from the midwest and east coast to chase their dreams of playing pro ball. The Lancaster Scouts chose left-handed pitcher Chris Smithers out of Valdosta State University with the first pick in the inaugural Frontier League Draft, and the Frontier League was born, playing their inaugural season in 1993.

HISTORY OF THE CAN-AM LEAGUE

The Can-Am League was created when the Northeast League was renamed in 2005. The Northeast League was formed in 1995 and played four seasons as an independent league. At the end of the 1998 season, the Northeast League was merged with the Northern League and became that league's East Division. Although the East Division did not play the teams that were already in the Northern League during the regular season, the respective divisions played each other in an all-star game every summer, and in a league championship series every fall from 1999 until 2002. The Northeast League became its own entity again for the 2003 season and continued play for one additional year before the renaming of the league.

The Allentown Ambassadors folded days before the 2004 season began, forcing the Northeast League to field a traveling team called the Aces. For the 2005 season, the Northeast League accepted the Worcester Tornadoes as a new eighth team. However, three weeks before the start of the 2005 season, the Bangor Lumberjacks folded, forcing the team to create another traveling team, this time called The Grays.

The league operated a traveling team whenever necessary to provide an even number of teams. However, doing so forced the other franchises to host more home games to provide a season of the same length. To obviate such disruptive last-minute schedule changes in the future, the Northeast League adopted a new charter, giving the league new powers to ensure that its franchises were solvent, and renamed itself the Canadian-American Association.

For 2006, the Can-Am League added two teams. The new Sussex Skyhawks replaced the Elmira Pioneers, which moved into the amateur New York Collegiate Baseball League; and the Nashua Pride joined the league from the Atlantic League. There were now eight teams without a traveling team.

For 2007, the Atlantic City Surf joined from the Atlantic League, and the league re-established The Grays, after a year of dormancy, as a tenth team. At the end of that season, both the New Haven County Cutters and the North Shore Spirit suspended operations, reducing the league to eight teams. Many New Haven player contracts were sold to Nashua, while many Spirit players were placed on waivers.

For 2008, Ottawa, which had lost its franchise in the International League, joined the Can-Am League as the Rapidz, an eighth franchise, displacing the Grays. After the 2008 season, Rapidz management declared bankruptcy. The league declared its intention to operate the Ottawa franchise in 2009. The league changed the team's name back to Rapids, a spelling used during the team's founding (Rapides in French). Later, however, the Commissioner stated the need for a "fresh start" and opened a contest to select a new name for the team. The winning name was "Voyageurs". Still later, the Atlantic City franchise was terminated, as a sale fell through.

On March 30, 2009, the league announced that it would shrink to six teams rather than having two league-operated teams. The Nashua Pride franchise was sold, and was known in 2009 as the American Defenders of New Hampshire because of the military tie-ins of its new ownership group. During the 2009 season the Defenders were locked out of Holman Stadium and forced to play their last home games on the road, bringing doubt to the future of baseball in Nashua. The Québec Capitales would go on to win their second League Championship.

On December 19, 2009, league directors preliminarily gave approval to transfer the membership of the American Defenders of New Hampshire from Nashua, New Hampshire, to Pittsfield, Massachusetts for play in the 2010 season. Final approval was granted by the city for use of Wahconah Park on February 1. The ownership group headed by Buddy Lewis had a lease on Wahconah Park for a team in the New England Collegiate Baseball League, and transferred the current lease for play in the Can-Am League. Dan Duquette, current Executive Vice-President of Baseball Operations for the Baltimore Orioles, was also part of the ownership group, which is known as Boston Baseball All-Stars LLC. The team was renamed the Pittsfield Colonials.

After the 2010 season the Sussex franchise was folded after its ownership group decided to focus its resources on the New Jersey Jackals, their primary team, and could not find a buyer. In its place, the league awarded the Rockland Boulders a franchise, added the Newark Bears from the Atlantic League, and formed the New York Federals as a traveling team. Pittsfield's franchise charter was rescinded after the 2011 season and the Colonials folded after ownership could not find partners.

The Brockton Rox moved to the Futures Collegiate Baseball League after the 2011 season. At the end of the 2012 season the Worcester charter was rescinded, and the league decided to try to find new owners for the Tornados, but failed to do so and awarded the franchise instead to a Trois-Rivières, Quebec, group. Beginning in 2012, Can-Am League clubs played 18 to 20 games per season against opponents from the American Association of Independent Professional Baseball, with which it shares a commissioner. After the 2013 season, Newark announced it would not compete in the 2014 season and the team was eventually folded altogether.

In 2014, the Can-Am League announced that a fifth team, based in Ottawa, would join the league for 2015. The league later announced it would be returning to Sussex County, New Jersey as well, and announced that a traveling team would join the Ottawa Champions and the Sussex County Miners to create a balanced schedule and continued to include matchups with the American Association. Interleague play ended after the 2015 season, though the Can-Am League continued to send players to the American Association's All-Star Game.

Starting with the 2015 season, the league hosted international clubs as part of its regular season schedule. Each of the regular clubs of the league played a series of 3 or 4 games against these international teams and the results of those games counted in the regular season standings. Over the years, the league hosted teams from Cuba, Japan and the Dominican Republic.

On October 16, 2019, the independent Frontier League announced that it was merging with the Can-Am League for the 2020 season. New Jersey, Sussex County, Québec, and Trois-Rivières all joined, as did a renamed Rockland franchise (now known as the New York Boulders). The Ottawa Champions were left out of the expanded league for 2020, but the Frontier League granted the Ottawa Titans as an expansion franchise to begin play in 2022.

THE LONGEST GAME - June 1-2, 2013

The longest game by both innings and time in Frontier League history began on June 1st of 2013 between the Washington Wild Things and Windy City ThunderBolts at Standard Bank Stadium in Crestwood, Illinois. The weather was inclement, however, and the start of the game was pushed back over three hours due to rain. After 57 minutes of play once the contest did start, the showers fell again, and suspended the contest until the following afternoon to be played as part of a doubleheader.

What ensued when the two teams resumed action on June 2nd turned out to be the longest in league history, lasting 19 innings and nearly six hours in total length (5 hours, 53 minutes to be exact) until Windy City's Andrew Brauer hit the only homer by either side in the game, a walk-off shot leading off the bottom of the 19th, as the ThunderBolts emerged victorious by a final score of 4-3.
